SECTION 7.
CHILD CUSTODY, PARENTAL RESPONSIBILITY, AND VISITATION

A. The following child(ren) have been born to the marriage of the parties:

Name	Birth date
_____	_____
_____	_____
_____	_____

B. Parental Responsibility - Child Custody

Both Husband and Wife are proper persons to have the permanent legal and physical custody, parental responsibility, care and control of the minor children of the parties. Husband and Wife shall share the decision-making rights, the responsibilities and the authority relating to the health, education and welfare of the children, and shall, therefore, make joint decisions concerning the children's health, education and welfare. Both Husband and Wife shall exchange information concerning the health, education and welfare of the minor children, and shall confer with one another in the exercise of decision-making rights, responsibilities and authority. Husband and Wife shall have equal access to all medical, dental and school records concerning the minor children.

However, the parties agree that the best interest of the child(ren) at this time is that primary parental responsibility and physical custody of the minor child(ren) will be and agree as follows:

Husband shall have primary parental responsibility and custody of the minor child(ren) of the parties subject to the visitation rights of Wife.

Wife shall have primary parental responsibility and custody of the minor child(ren) of the parties subject to the visitation rights of Husband.

Husband and Wife shall have joint primary parental responsibility and custody of the minor child(ren) of the parties, both legal and physical.

C. Secondary Parental Responsibility, Visitation, or Time Sharing - General Provisions.

Visitation shall be conducted pursuant the following general provisions:

Visitation should be pleasant for the children and for the parent. Visitation should help the children maintain a good relationship with the non-custodial parent.

Visitation means the visiting parent will have the children visit in his or her home overnight. It may include trips and outings elsewhere.

Visitation schedules shall be followed and the visiting parent shall inform the other parent when he or she cannot comply with the schedule.

Adjustment of the visitation schedule from time to time may be necessary according to the children's ages, health and interests.

Visitation should provide meaningful personal contact for both the visiting parent and the children.

Visitation should not be used to check on the other parent and the children should not be questioned for information about the other parent.

Both parents should strive to agree on matters pertaining to the children, including discipline, so that one parent is not undermining the other parent's efforts.

It is in the child's best interest for each parent to have a frequent, meaningful and continuing relationship with their children. For children to make an adequate adjustment to the dissolution of their parents marriage, the children must be allowed to continue their relationship with both parents, experience minimal changes in their lifestyle if at all possible, and not experience post-divorce conflict between their parents.

The non-custodial parent shall notify the custodial parent in writing no later than May 1st of each year as to the specific weeks of such summer visitation.

E. Secondary Parental Responsibility, Visitation, or Time Sharing – Additional Provisions.

In exercising visitation rights the following additional provisions apply:

Conflicts Between Regular Weekend, Holiday, and Extended Summer Visitation.

Where there is a conflict between a holiday weekend and the regular weekend visitation, the holiday takes precedence. Thus, if the non-custodial parent misses a regular weekend because it is the custodial parent's holiday, the regular alternating visitation schedule will resume following the holiday. If the non-custodial parent received two consecutive weekends because of a holiday, the child will spend the following weekend with the custodial parent. When there is a conflict between holiday visitation and extended summer visitation, the holiday visitation takes precedence. When there is a conflict between regular weekend visitation and extended summer visitation, extended summer visitation takes precedence.

Appropriate Conduct By Parents. Parents shall, at all times, avoid speaking negatively about each other and should firmly discourage such conduct by relatives or friends. Each parent should encourage the children to support the other parent. The basic rules of conduct and discipline established by the custodial parent should be the baseline standard for both parents, and consistently enforced by both, so that the children do not receive mixed signals.

Parental Communication. Parents shall at all times keep each other advised of their home and work addresses and telephone numbers. So far as possible, all communication concerning the children shall be conducted between the parents in person, or telephonically at their residences (and not at their places of employment).

Grade Reports and Medical Information. The custodial parent shall provide the non-custodial parent with grade reports and notices from school as they are received and shall, consistent with _____ law, permit the non-custodial parent to communicate concerning the children directly with the school and with the children's doctors and other professionals, outside the presence of the custodial parent. Each parent shall immediately notify the other of any medical emergencies or serious illnesses of the children. The custodial parent shall notify the non-custodial parent of all school or other events (like Church or Scouts) involving parental participation. If the children are taking medications, the custodial parent shall provide a sufficient amount and appropriate instructions.

Visitation Clothing. The custodial parent shall send an appropriate supply of the children's clothing with them, which shall be returned clean (when reasonably possible), with the children, by the non-custodial parent. The non-custodial parent shall advise, as far in advance as possible, of any special activities so that the appropriate clothing may be sent.

Visitation or Support Disputes. Neither visitation nor child support is to be withheld because of either parent's failure to comply with a court order. The children have a right to both support and visitation, neither of which is dependent upon the other. In other words, failure to pay support does not mean no visitation and no visitation does not mean no support. If there is a violation of either a visitation or a support order, the exclusive remedy is to apply to the court for appropriate sanctions.

Adjustments to This Visitation Schedule. Although this is a rather specific schedule, the parties are expected to fairly modify visitation when family necessities, illnesses or commitments reasonably so require. The requesting party shall give as much notice as circumstances permit.

Pickup and Drop-off. Unless other arrangements are made, the non-custodial parent shall pick up the children at the times specified and return them at the times specified. The custodial parent shall have the children ready for visitation at the time they are to be picked up and shall be present at the home to receive the children at the time they are returned. Unjustified violations of this provision may result in the offender being subject to contempt of court. (Commentary: While it is most desirable for the parents to pick up and return the children, this provision does not prohibit grandparents, current spouses or other appropriate adults known to the children.)

Extracurricular Activities. Children are often involved in sports, lessons, and other extracurricular activities, which are generally to their benefit and enjoyment. Each parent shall recognize that a reasonable amount of extracurricular activities are generally assumed to be in the children's best interests. Each parent should attempt to be flexible in order to accommodate the children's extracurricular activity schedules as much as reasonably possible, although extracurricular activities should not supersede summer visitation with non-custodial parents, nor should they be used as a method by which to deny access to the non-custodial parent. In recognition of the scheduling difficulties that can be caused by children's extracurricular activities, custodial parents should act in good faith in attempting to schedule such extracurricular activities as not to unreasonably infringe upon the non-custodial parent's access to the children. Likewise, the non-custodial parent should act in good faith in attempting to assist in transportation needs and in accommodating the children's extracurricular schedules as much as reasonably possible. Good faith communication by the parents is essential with regard to the difficult issue of the scheduling of children's extracurricular activities.

Notice of Canceled Visitation. Whenever possible, the non-custodial parent shall give a minimum of three (3) days notice of intent not to exercise all or part of the scheduled visitation. When such notice is not reasonably possible, the maximum notice permitted by the circumstances, and the reason therefore, shall be given. The custodial parent shall give the same type of notice when good cause exists making the cancellation or modification of scheduled visitation necessary.

Missed Visitation. In the event the non-custodial parent misses visitation as the result of illness of the child or parent, an emergency, or other such reasonable excuse, the parties shall make a good faith effort to make up a portion of that visitation within a reasonable period of time, understanding the importance of the non-custodial parent's continuing and frequent contact with the children. (Commentary: It is important to remember that illness should not necessarily deprive the non-custodial parent of visitation with the children. Clearly, a non-custodial parent can take care of a sick child as well as the custodial parent in many circumstances.)

Custodial Parent's Vacation. Unless otherwise specified, the custodial parent shall be entitled to a period of vacation with the children no less than that accorded the non-custodial parent, whose visitation shall abate during the first fourteen days thereof, and thereafter only so long as distance makes visitation impracticable.

Caretaker Provision. As a general rule, each parent shall have the right of first refusal for childcare or baby-sitting needs of the other parent for durations of four hours or more. Whenever either parent has a need for child care or baby sitting for a duration of four hours or more, that parent should always make a good faith attempt first to inquire of the other parent, with as much advance notice as reasonably possible, whether the other parent desires to provide child care or baby sitting. The other parent is under no obligation to provide the childcare or baby-sitting. If the other parent elects to provide such childcare or baby-sitting, it shall be done at no cost. This provision is intended to provide each parent additional access to the children whenever reasonably possible.

Telephone and Mail Privileges. Each parent shall allow liberal and reasonable telephone and mail privileges with the children.

Medical Reports and Bills. The Custodial parent shall provide copies of all medical information, and documentation, including bills, within seven (7) days of their receipt and shall immediately notify the other parent in the event of a medical emergency. Every effort shall be made for the custodial parent to provide the non-custodial parent with the necessary information of a medical expense in order to get the bill satisfied. The parent with the medical insurance shall provide the other parent with a copy of the explanation of benefits within seven (7) days from the date of receipt of same so that the uninsured portion of the bill can be quickly calculated and paid within a reasonable period of time.

Abatement of Support During Extended Visitation. If the non-custodial parent's support obligation is current, support shall abate by 50 percent during any visitation of seven (7) consecutive days or more. If support is not current, the 50 percent that would have been abated shall be paid and shall apply to the existing arrearage. (Commentary: If the custodial parent actually receives the full amount of child support during this period and if support is current, it is the custodial parent's obligation to refund the money immediately to the non-custodial parent. This alleviates many of the problems that arise when wage-withholding orders have been issued.)

Modification. If the parties mutually agree permanently to change the provisions of their decree of divorce, they must petition the Court to approve and order that change. In the event that the parties do not obtain a court order, the Court will not be bound by any alleged Agreement of the parties.

F. Other Provisions. {Explain any other agreed-upon arrangements}

Neither parent shall take the child(ren) from the custody of the other parent or any child care provider or other person entrusted by the other parent with the care of the child(ren) without the Agreement of the other party during the other party's time of parental responsibility or visitation.
